The Current's Roadeo competitors and volunteers

ROCKINGHAM: Two Current drivers competed in the Sixth Annual Vermont State Bus Roadeo which was held May 6 in Barre. Nineteen drivers competed, representing eight of the state's ten transit providers.

Representing the Current was TJ Stevens and Andy Haskell. They were tested in three areas: a written exam, wheelchair securement, and an on-course driving skills test. Haskell placed seventh and Stevens ninth. The event was won by Wayne Snow of MVRTD from Rutland. Thanks to volunteers Rebecca Gagnon, Ed and Nate Tarvit, Jon Polidor, Brad Condon, and Steve Hathaway.

The volunteers and competitors braved varying weather conditions and a long day to put on this fun event. The camaraderie is the key benefit, as drivers from all over the state meet, compete, and hang out for the day. Snow will represent Vermont at the National Bus Roadeo in Detroit on June 11th.
